ITALY'S BREAD
IS RATIONED

Heavy Taxation of Profits Ordered To Pay For
The War

(By Associated Press)
ROME, Sept. 27.—Italy's bread was ordered rationed today, starting next Wednesday, and a group of measures was approved by the cabinet to conserve material, defend the lira and pay for the war through heavy taxation of profits.
The rationing was announced after Premier Mussolini informed the cabinet that the 1941 grain crop was insufficient for the country's needs.
Most of the measures revised and reinforced previous decrees.
Chief among the cabinet's rulings were:
The basic daily bread ration was fixed at 200 grams, about six and one-half ounces, with ordinary workers allowed 300 grams or about 10 ounces, and workers at heavy tasks 400 grams or about 13 ounces.
A uniform 20 per cent tax on profits from the sale of business securities listed on stock exchanges was substituted for a previous scale running up to 50 per cent.
Certain shares of private companies were ordered registered to prevent evasion of a 20 per cent tax on their profits.
Plants are to be de-centralized in zones of new hydro-electric power in southern Italy, Sicily and Sardinia.
Government and Fascist party agents and representatives of public institutions are to see that private concerns operate "effectively." The Fascist party was given a voice in the filling of public offices to guarantee that appointees are good fascists.

SALEM IS SET FOR INITIAL
APPLE FETE

Curtain Goes Up Thursday On District's First Annual Festival

QUEEN NOW TOURING
THREE-COUNTY AREA

More than 125 Booths, With Displays, Will Line
Main Streets

The center of one of Ohio's best apple producing regions, Salem will raise the curtain next Thursday on its first annual Apple Festival.
With persons from far and near expected to attend, the event will continue Friday and Saturday, climaxed by an Apple ball for which Enoch Light's New York City dance orchestra will play.
Endorsed officially by the Columbiana-Mahoning County Fruit Growers' association, the festival will attract not only farm folk from the northeastern Ohio area, but thousands of persons interested in the non-agricultural attractions which the festival will offer.

Traffic To Detour

Salem's entire business district will take on a festive air. The two main streets will be blocked for the three days and state highway department officials will detour traffic over Routes 14, 45 and 62.
More than 125 display booths, housing agricultural, commercial and industrial exhibits, will line the streets. For apples alone, in the farm produce section, there will be a display space 175 feet long and six feet deep. Prizes are offered in the agricultural displays.

Right now Miss Gloria Virginia Harry, queen of the Apple Festival, is accompanying a good week truck which is touring northeastern Ohio cities, giving away apples to admire the event.

Varied Events Planned

The coronation of the queen is to take place the opening night of the festival. A baby parade will be another first-day event. A pet parade is planned the second day and the queen's parade Saturday afternoon, Oct. 4.
Fruit growers will have an opportunity to study their own technical problems at a horticultural meeting the first night of the festival. J. H. Gourley, head of the horticultural department of the Ohio Experiment station at Wooster, will be the principal speaker.
The meeting will be the largest of its kind ever held in the county, according to Floyd Lower, Columbiana county's farm extension agent, and J. C. Hedge, Mahoning county agent.
Ora E. Anderson and T. Emerson Smith are co-chairmen of the festival.
The dance Saturday night will be from 10 p. m. until 2 a. m. at the Elks home.

REDS HOLD OUT
AT LENINGRAD

Nazis Claim "Victory Unparalleled in History"
At Kiev

(By Associated Press)
MOSCOW, Sept. 27.—Soviet Russian troops repulsed a Nazi attack at the approaches to Leningrad during the night as fighting continued along the entire front, it was officially reported today.
The Russians said their troops scored successes on the central front, where a sustained counter-drive has been reported driving the Germans back to the west.
Earlier Russian dispatches indicated that the Red army defenders of the Crimea had mowed down thousands of Germans at the approaches to that peninsula Soviet republic, which is a key to control of the Black sea.
The Soviet mid-day communique announced that over 4,000 officers and men of enemy forces had been driven to the approaches to Leningrad, and 69 aircraft and 34 tanks and other war material captured or destroyed.
It added that over 300 German soldiers and officers were killed on the central front and 24 tanks and other war equipment were destroyed.

Nazis Claim Record Victory BERLIN, Sept. 27.—A victory "unparalleled in history" in the great battle of Kiev, was claimed today by the German high command which declared 665,000 prisoners had been rounded up and that virtually not a man of five entrapped Soviet armies escaped.

Germans claim the fight "the greatest destructive battle in world history."

"The exploitation of these successes," said Hitler's command, "is in full swing."
In the next sentence, the high command reported new air smashes against Moscow and Tula, a rail center south of Moscow.

Nazi spearheads driving ever deeper into the Soviet union were reported by informed quarters at the headquarters of the Volga river 300 miles southeast of Leningrad as the official word came of the end of the long and violent struggle in the vast territory east of Kiev—the route to the industrial Donets basin.

Virtually not a man of the Russian armies trapped in the Kiev region escaped, according to German sources.

All were declared to be either dead or captured—annihilated, in the full sense of the word as used by German military leaders.

Bury Ohioan Today

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27.—Paternal service was scheduled today for Mrs. Florence Stricker, former wife of John Lake, 21, of Columbiana, who was killed in a crash automobile collision on Route 14, just west of the junction of Route 7, at 7:30
a. m. today, brought injuries to the drivers and two others.
State patrolmen said the crash occurred when Everett C. Coalmer, 18, of R. D. 1, Columbiانا, attempted to pass a truck and was tempted by an approaching car driven by John Lake, 18, of 216 W. Friend st., Columbiانا.

The drivers and Roderick Morgan, 17, of R. D. 1, Columbiانا, a passenger in Coalmer's car, and William Scott, 18, of Columbiانا, who was riding with Lake, received cuts, bruises and abrasions and were discharged from Salem City hospital following emergency treatment.

BRITISH PLAN
TO SEND ARMS
TO CAUCASUS

Signs Become Evident That Help Will Be Given
To Russia

NAZI DIVISIONS
POUND AT CRIMEA

Capture Would Give Germans Partial Command Of Black Sea

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Sept. 27.—Signs that Britain plans to send troops from India and the Middle East to aid Russia in defending the all-important Caucasus became increasingly evident today as the German war machine fought almost at the door of that oil-rich area.

The need for speedy British help was stressed by the German attack on the Crimea, but the British kept the Axis guessing as to what actual forces and material might be sent through the new Iran door into the Caucasus.

Four German divisions and Nazi parachute troops were reported pounding at the Crimea in a furious battle, and informed sources said capture of that land would give the Germans partial command of the Black sea, making a sea invasion of the Caucasus a possibility.

Observers noted these signs that Britain was planning the fullest help for Russia:

1. General Sir Archibald P.
Wavell, British commander in India, was reported about to meet Col. T. Novikov, Russian commander in Teheran, the Iranian capital.

2. Both General Wavell and General Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck, British Middle East commander, have been in London for conference with Prime Minister Churchill and General Sir John G. Dill, chief of the British imperial staff.

3. The announcement that Capt.
Oliver Lyttleton, British Middle East political and economic coordinator, is in London.

4. Reports—unconfirmed but not denied—that British troops and supplies are being landed constantly at Bandar Shapur, Iranian port at the head of the Persian gulf.

5. Appointment of a transport expert, Brigadier General Sir Godfrey Rhodes, as director of transportation through Iran.

British sources have stressed the necessity of keeping the Germans away from the Caucasian oil fields.

Meanwhile, British supplies were said to be flowing into Russia via Iran and other routes while British and United States missions conferred with the Russians in Moscow.

REDUCED DEFENSE
SPENDING IS URGED

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 27.— Careful scrutiny of lease-lend appropriations are urged by Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio).

"There is no doubt that a vast amount of waste has occurred, and an intelligent control of purchases can reduce the cost of the vast defense program without reducing in the least its effectiveness," Taft told a meeting of the Pennsylvania Savings and Loan league last night.

Discussing inflation dangers, the senator asserted defense spending compelled some form of price-fixing, adding, however, that "up to date, the price-fixing program has been a kind of legal blackmail."

"Certainly, legislation of some kind is preferable to the present confused and illegal program," he declared.

KNOX, THOMAS
URGE REPEAL

U.S. On Threshold of World War No. 2, Says Navy
Secretary

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Secretary of the Navy Knox and Senator Thomas (R-Utah) urged in separate declarations today that neutrality act restrictions be lifted to give the United States a free hand in protecting its world interests.

Knox asserted in an article in the "Foreign Commerce Weekly" that "the United States stands today on the threshold of World War No. 2."

"I was against the neutrality acts at the time of their passage," he said. "I can only once again urge their repeal."

The magazine for which he wrote is an official publication of the department of commerce.

Urges Power for President Thomas said he was opposed to "tying the hands of the chief executive in this time of crisis" and proposed that President Roosevelt be given complete discretionary authority to scrap neutrality legislation.

"We have been abandoning our neutrality step by step," Thomas, a high ranking member of the foreign relations committee, told reporters.

"There is not much left of the neutrality act now except the prohibitions against the arming of merchant ships, against sending ships into belligerent ports and

Damascus' Oldest
Resident Is Dead

Miss Mary Schaeffer, 99, Dies at Home After
Day's Illness

Miss Mary Schaeffer, 99, Damascus' oldest resident, died at 8:30 a. m. today of a stroke, following one
day's illness.

Born May 18, 1842, at North Benton, she was the daughter of Rev.
and Mrs. John Schaeffer. She made her home in North Benton until 1910 when she moved to Damascus where she and a sister, Susan,
had made their home since that time. She was a member of the Christian church
at Deerfield.

Surviving are her sister, who is 94
years old; a great
nephew, Dr. Lea A. Cobbs of Salem, and several other nephews and nieces.

Miss Schaeffer's father, a minister in the Christian church, purchased an 80-acre farm, on the Benton rd. eight miles from Salem, where the two sisters spent their youthhood. He made the purchase from the government, cleared the land and built the home in which the sisters lived until moving to Damascus.

As a child, she often recalled, she had been frightened by the Indians who visited their home. She attended a "little red schoolhouse" at Damascus and, later, the Damasus academy.

Funeral service will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Arbaugh - Pearce funeral home by Rev. H. L. Peoples of Damasus, pastor of the church.

Burial will be in Hartsville cemetery at North Benton.
Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p. m. Monday.

The 15-ton giant was unveiled last night before 175 members of the Cleveland Astronomical society, but Dr. J. J. Nassau, professor of astronomy at the Case School of Applied Science, said it will not be ready to take pictures for a week.

The telescope is so delicately balanced it is adjustable by hand.
It is 17 feet long, has a focal length of seven feet, and a focal ratio

FAIL TO BREAK
SEA BLOCKADE

Italy Loses 200,000 Tons In Month Trying To Reach Libya

(By Associated Press)
ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Sept. 27.— Italy was reported today to have lost 29 ships totaling 200,000 tons trying to send reinforcements to Libya during September—her blackest month at sea since the defeat of her warships by the British at Matapan.

Information here indicated that Italian efforts to crash the British air and sea blockade between Italy and the north African coast cost her the sinking of one and the damaging of two of every five conveyed troop and supply ships.

A compilation of the losses listed in British communiques since Sept.
1 showed 23 ships of 3,000 to 8,000 tons sunk, besides four liners of more than 20,000 tons each. In addition, the communiques said the Italians lost two destroyers.

A 10,000-ton 8-inch gun cruiser was listed as torpedoed, and 30 supply ships were reported damaged severely.

Observers here believed the hopes of Axis legions in the north African desert for much-needed equipment and fresh troops were hard hit by the sinkings.

Each of four big liners lost, it was estimated, could carry up to 5,000 soldiers. Loss of life, however, was presumed to have been relatively small since the troopships were heavily escorted.

WARNING ISSUED
TO LAW VIOLATORS

Inn Keeper Beats Indictment By Going To Justice Court

LISBON, Sept. 27.—Prosecutor Frank W. Springer today issued orders to all law enforcement officers to file charges immediately following the arrest of law violators, and decreed that they shall be imprisoned, pending a hearing unless bond can be furnished.

The action was taken by Prosecutor Springer to prevent a possible recurrence of the incident in which a grand jury investigation was made and an indictment returned charging a tavern operator with exhibiting a gambling device.

Prior to the grand jury investigation the tavern operator was taken before a justice of the peace on an affidavit signed by an individual, where he pleaded guilty to a charge of exhibiting a gambling device and paid a fine. Under the law, a man does not have to stand trial a second time for the same offense, and the grand jury indictment was an empty gesture in this case.

Prosecutor Springer stated: "We have been treating the violators of the law, with respect to gambling, as gentlemen and they have taken advantage of the situation. Now we're going to crack down on them and no more leniency will be shown. I am asking all law enforcement officers to file charges immediately in the future."

Forget the Warrant

BOWLING GREEN, Sept. 27.— Sheriff's deputies, armed with a peace warrant, went to the home of Charles Miller in nearby Rudolph and found him in the kitchen, dressing two pheasants. Taken before Justice E. E. Bailey, Miller pleaded guilty and was fined $200.
The deputies forgot to serve the peace warrant.

its intoxicating qualities. One of the men in the box accepted.

The defendant was convicted.

FDR STRESSES
PLAN TO AID
U.S. SHIPPING

Protection "From Torpedo, Shell and Bomb" To Be Provided

14 CARGO VESSELS
LAUNCHED TODAY

"Ships Will Sail Seas As They Are Intended To",
President Says

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—President Roosevelt acclaimed today's launching of 14 cargo ships as "a telling blow at the menace to our nation," and emphasized his intention to protect American merchantmen "from torpedo, from shell or from bomb."

The chief executive's congratulations on the largest mass launching since World War days were sent in a specially transcribed message to the Atlantic, Pacific and gulf yards where the new vessels slid down the ways.

America's shipbuilders, the President said, "have caught the true spirit with which all this nation must be imbued if Hitler and other aggressors of his like are to be prevented from crushing us."

His "Gospel of Fear"
continued, "cannot listen to those few Americans who preach the gospel of fear—who say in effect that they are still in favor of freedom of the seas but who would have the United States tie up our vessels in our ports. That attitude is neither truthful or honest."

"We propose that these ships sail the seas as they are intended to.
We propose, to the best of our ability, to protect them from torpedo, from shell, or from bomb."

The day was designated "Liberty Fleet day" to mark the first launchings of emergency freighters in the maritime commission's vast construction program. Three of the "Liberty ships"—or "ugly ducklings"—were on today's launching schedule.

Mr. Roosevelt noted that the first of the Liberty ships, built at Baltimore, was to be called the Patrick Henry, and he recalled Henry's
"Give me liberty or give me death."

"There shall be no death for America, for democracy, for freedom," the President proclaimed.
"There must be liberty, world-wide and eternal. This is our prayer—our pledge to all mankind."

The nation's shipbuilding program must be speeded up to an eventual goal of two vessels every day, Mr. Roosevelt asserted.

"As a nation," he said, "we have realized that our export trade and our import trade had a definitely good effect on the life of families, not only on our coasts but on the farms and in the cities a hundred or a thousand miles from salt water."

His Peak Launching
The navy this week also reached the fastest launching pace since the start of the two-ocean construction program. Six warships, including the battleship Massachusetts, slid into the water.

Designed for rapid construction, the Liberty ship has an overall length of 441 feet 6 inches, a beam of 57 feet, a total displacement of 14,100 tons, and will carry a general cargo of 9,146 tons. Contracts for the construction of 312 "ugly ducklings" have been awarded.

Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, maritime commission chairman, declared in a speech last night that "more and still more merchant ships must be built to carry the cargoes so vitally essential to the ultimate defeat of those aggressors who are threatening the liberty of all the peoples of the world."

THE CONFLICT THAT GOES ON FOREVER

The most timely of President Roosevelt's series of articles in Collier's deals this week with his attempt to obtain congressional cooperation in dealing with the threat of war that had been growing since 1933. In 1931, he declares, congress hastened the coming of war by refusing to repeal the arms embargo section of the neutrality act until called into special session in the fall. The present neutrality act, without the arms embargo section, was passed in November—too late to check Germany.

The President's exposition of his foresightedness and the stubbornness of congress leaves something to be desired. It is too easy to blame his critics and, of course, the newspapers now for something that happened when the shape of things to come had not been revealed. It may be granted that Mr. Roosevelt saw more clearly than most of his countrymen that war was inevitable without granting at the same time that those who disagreed are to blame for the fact it caught the United States ill prepared to defend itself.

During all the years when he says he knew what was coming Mr. Roosevelt had the rare privilege of almost unanimous support for his policies. He had the confidence of an overwhelming majority of the people. His touch on public opinion was magic. If anyone could have awakened a slumbering country, the President could have done it. He tried, he says, but perhaps he didn't try hard enough. The tendency of the chief executive and congress to engage in recriminations after the event is timeless; it is the conflict that never ends in a government of divided responsibility. The people, it is safe to say, would be well satisfied, however, if it were suspended now while they make up for lost time. They do not blame Mr. Roosevelt for not knowing what was going to happen, nor can they find it in their hearts to blame congress. It was a national mistake and a national responsibility.

OPEN SESAME

To understand the United States and its denizens one must understand why the borough of Brooklyn runs a perennial fever about the major league baseball club that bears its name. He must know exactly why the fever is reaching a climax after a 20-year period of suspense because at long last the Brooklyn Dodgers have won the National League pennant. He must grasp the tremendous implications of a world series between the Dodgers and the New York Yankees, supported principally by the natives of two other boroughs, Manhattan and the Bronx.

He must respond knowingly to the declaration that a "subway series," which means thousands of baseball fans rushing hither and yon in tunnels beneath the ground to fight for a perch in the baseball parks at something like a dollar a square inch is a fine thing.

He must have the batting averages of Camille Owens, Dickey, Heinrich and Herman in his mind and must bear a speaking acquaintance with the tactics of citizens named Durocher and McCarthy. When all these things have been put down pat, along with 10,000 items of incidental information including the reasons for the betting odds against the Dodgers, one may say, "Now I understand one of the great mysteries of the United States."

THE GENERAL IDEA LINGERS ON

Sooner or later, Wendell Willkie was going to be made to eat his air-clearing confession that some of his campaign oratory in 1940 was pure peach fuzz. He now explains in the course of a ratiocative with Sen. Clark of Idaho, chairman of the senate subcommittee sniffing at movies, that the confession applied only to one statement in his oratory—that the United States was likely to get into war by April, 1941, if Franklin D. Roosevelt were reelected.

If that's the way Mr. Willkie wants it to be, so be it. The public, however, which was warned by his candid admission that campaign oratory never was meant to be taken literally, will stick by the general idea. It has wondered for years whether politicians believed all that stuff.

Armed with one candidate's confession that at least one statement was fluff, it is going to be a lot quicker in the future to challenge other statements of a similar nature.

Mr. Willkie, who was heralded as a fresh breeze blowing through the stuffiness of national politics when he first made the grade, inadvertently has brought about as important a reform in defeat as he could have brought about if he had been elected a year ago—come next November.

THE GROCERY BOY

State Secretary Hull says the United States government has no interest whatever in proposed legislation for feeding starving populations conquered by Germany; that is Germany's responsibility. Here, unless the signs mislead, is the informal announcement of a national policy of first magnitude.

The United States plans to become the arsenal of democracy, but it already is the storehouse. It is helping to feed the European nation it favors in the war and is capable of helping to feed any other nation that qualifies for assistance. In the debate on Herbert Hoover's proposal for feeding Europeans, there never was any question of ability; it was entirely a question of policy.

Secretary Hull, speaking no doubt for the Roosevelt administration, now says that the government is not interested in feeding starving populations abroad. If that means what it seems to mean, the United States has no intention of taking Germany off the traditional hot spot occupied by conquerors who can't weather the consequences of conquest, chief of which is responsibility for feeding conquered peoples.

Germany, in the long run, must be something more than a warrior throwing thunderbolts if it wants to organize Europe. It must be a grocery boy, too. Perhaps the foremost fact of existence for millions of Europeans today is knowledge that in the United States there is more than enough to eat. A "new order" that doesn't furnish food along with authority is bound to have hard sledding.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, September 28

SUNDAY'S horoscope is an excellent one for promoting all religious, spiritual, affectional and social interests. It is a time for reaching to high aims in such direction with everything pointing to exceptional success and gratification. Ideals and aspirations will be exalted, but keep feet on the ground while the head is in the sky.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of a happy, progressive and prosperous year, with both business and private affairs affording much gratification. The mentality should be shrewd, deep, inventive and original while the emotions will be warm and expansive probably culminating in marriage or happy friendships.

A child born on this day should have a very fine, sympathetic and aspiring nature, with the mind and emotions reaching high expression and much happiness.

For Monday, September 29

Monday's astrological forecast is for a particularly active and enterprising state of affairs, with many new and extraordinary developments suddenly springing to the front, to be handled with initiative, determination, perseverance as well as a program of well-organized strategem and attack. Novel or revolutionary ideas may be employed but sustained by practical and reasonable as well as conservative standards.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate an exceptionally lively, constructive and enterprising year, with new projects and revolutionary and novel ideas succeeding if founded upon workable, logical and accepted standards. Restraint of impulses, excess emotions and other exaggerated stimuli should be rigidly exercised. Definite changes would be advisable if suggested by higherups whose aid is required.

A child born on this day while having much originality, unique talents, ideas and aspirations should be practical, constructive, persistent and proud.

SUPER-MICROSCOPE VALUE STRESSED

Expected To Be of Great Aid To Science

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

It was only about three hundred years ago that a Dutch diamond cutter named Jansen made a little convex glass that showed him astonishing anatomical details of flats, plant fibers, insects and mouth scrapings. That simple microscope was slowly improved.

About 1820 construction of modern microscopes began. It was only seventy-five years ago Edward Bausch completed the first microscope made in the western hemisphere. Now there are over 50,000 microscopes in use in this country. These serviceable tools can show images 2,000 times larger than life. The famous "naked" human eye can see no object that is less than 1-125 of an inch long.

That is, the human eye can distinguish two points when they are 0.08 inches apart, and no more. Now comes the supermicroscope that can resolve two points 1-10,000,000 of an inch apart.

Electron Microscope
To put it another way, the ordinary microscope magnifies 2,000 times, the super-microscope 10,000 or 30,000 times. Photographic enlargements can be made 100,000 to 1,000,000 times life size.

One of the smallest objects that can be seen under the ordinary microscope is the tubercle bacillus. A group of them looks like little fine bits of hair clippings. I have just seen a photograph of a tubercle bacillus made by the super-microscope that is as big as my thumb.

The super-microscope is known as the electron microscope. The source of light is electrons from a hot tungsten wire coated with salts, from which electrons emerge into a vacuum. They bombard and pass through something like X-rays the object to be examined. The possibilities of even larger magnifications can be prophesied from what we now know of the electron microscope.

Help to Science

What can be expected in medical science from this new microscope? Several years ago an amateur London microscopist announced the possibility of finding the cause of cancer with a microscope devised by him which enlarged many magnifications more than the ordinary microscope. But his instrument was a poor thing compared to the electron microscope. His idea, however, was sound. We can expect to see many details of the cell, not only of the cancer cell, but of normal cells by sufficient magnification.

Then the field of the viruses—those causes of diseases such as smallpox, chicken pox and infantile paralysis—which are now called ultra-microscopic—may be opened up and these objects hitherto elusive to any magnification of vision we possess may be revealed. To see the protein molecule, which must be large as molecules go, but still smaller than any germ, is another possibility.

Questions And Answers

W. R.: "1. What are the advantages of bicycling? 2. Is it good for thin people? 3. Does it make muscles on the legs? 4. What does it do to bow legs?"

Answer: Bicycling is a very healthy form of exercise—fortunately, because we all may soon be reduced to it as a method of progression. It certainly strengthens the muscles of the leg, also the abdomen and back. It has no effect on bow legs, either pro or con.

YOUNGSTOWN • SALEM • STRUTHERS

BARRED 7 SEVENS by MARYSE RUTLEDGE

SYNOPSIS

Aboard a ferry, enroute to visit his fiancée, Jane Rider, David Farland prevents an attractive young woman from jumping overboard. The hysterical girl entrusts him with an envelope, requesting that he deliver it to the socially prominent Richard Garrison, if she does not call for it within a week. Noting a couple watching them, the girl's eyes dilate with fear. "I guess he wouldn't play fair!" she exclaims and dashes away, dropping a compact initialed "C. B." and a pamphlet entitled, "American Warning!" On the train, David discovers the envelope is missing from his pocket.

CHAPTER TWO

Jane Rider awakened slowly this Saturday morning. She lay reposed, listening to the bark of dogs on the road. In the stillness of the country, they sounded wild and free of spirit. She envied them. Suddenly she remembered, and sat bolt upright, her chestnut hair spreading over her shoulders. David was coming for the weekend. And, last night, Kurt Helm had been quite horrible.

But it was David who mattered—dear impatient David, who had said, "You're my girl," the first time he met her. Perhaps it wasn't fair to have kept him waiting for so long, because she feared her shyness, her inexperience might hamper a New York boy. Now she was decided. It would be yes to him, tonight. She wondered how she could ever get through the long day in the local library where she worked. Her thoughts danced about David.

There had only been that one glorious summer in New York, after high school, where she took special courses at Columbia—and met David at the house of a friend. She didn't want to think of Kurt Helm. She thought of him; a man ages older—he must be at least thirty-three—who had turned up four months ago, to live in the old log cabin across the road. He was a writer, he said. At first he had fascinated her. His face stood out now as she had seen it last night; narrow, blond, his thin lips cruel, his eyes green in the firelight of the living-room. That was when, after supper, her mother left them alone. Kurt's long features, his expression, his voice, had changed so shockingly.

"I shouldn't have come to this place," he said harshly. "Lean people living on fat lands, thinking of nothing while the world blows up around them. You don't know me, Jane, but you will. Do you think I'll let you marry that young megaphone who comes up here; that boy who works in a sport shop? You belong with me, in my work, I'll teach you. I'll train you. I'll love you."

He caught her in his arms. "I never forget. And I get what I want. You will see."

She was sorry now that she and her mother had ever been kind to him. Her mother was that way; warm hearted, generous, never seeing evil. She liked Helm, "Poor lad, living all by himself in that "I get what I want... I want you. You will see," said Kurt.

old log cabin!" she often said.

Jane moved away from her bed to the window. She wouldn't let this weekend with David be spoiled by anyone. She breathed in the damp September air. Fog drained the maples of their brilliance. The mountains, High Tor and Trap Rock, shouldered up from a purple haze.

She loved this country. Her grandfather had tended his fields and orchards here. Her father, before his death, was forced to sell the rich acres to city people. But the old brownstone house was hers, and her mother's. Wherever she went with David, she would know that this was her inheritance. Kurt Helm didn't belong here, she thought passionately. He must go.

The log cabin where Kurt lived was gloomy. Hidden by oaks and underbrush, it crouched in shade, a shallow brook tinkling by the back door. In winter, it stood out among stark branches and snowdrifts. Even when no one lived in it, Jane had always disliked that eerie spot across the road.

"Breakfast's ready, dear," her mother called up.

"Coming."

Jane vigorously brushed her hair, parting its crisp waves, drawing them loosely back. The curly ends rolled outward. She slipped into the green costume David liked; short, tailored coat, silk knitted sweater and skirt. Her skin bloomed; her brown eyes sparkled. Her mouth was beautiful.

The kitchen was bright and gay, with plants on the window sills, and rows of shining pots. Mrs. Rider glanced up, smiling, her white hair soft around her pink cheeks, her figure crisp in a belted apron.

While Jane ate her breakfast, her mother hovered close. "I'll have a nice supper for David," she said cheerfully.

It was time to start for the library. Jane impulsively hugged her mother. "We do have fun, don't we, darling?"

"Of course, dear."

"Don't worry if we're late," Jane sang out from her old coupe.

The muffled ring of an axe went mute across the road. Kurt Helm, chopping wood, had heard Jane's voice.

The 5:56 panted into the blurred lights of Haverstraw.

Jane hurried toward the platform. Her cheeks glowed in the drifting mist. Her eyes were bright under the slant of her green Robin

Hood hat with the long quill.

She sighted David, leaping out of the train. Then a woman in a light coat, collided with Jane and veered off in the direction of the taxi line. Behind this woman, whose white face and terrified gray eyes seemed to stream by, David Farland raced.

He waved and shouted incoherently at Jane as he passed.

A taxicab door slammed. Jane was vaguely conscious of a stiffshouldered man and a rather dowdy woman hurrying past her.

She went back to her parked car, climbed in, her hand limp on the wheel.

David rushed back, breathless.

"Missed her!" he exclaimed, as if

Jane knew all about it.

Jane said, "Did you?"

Her mild sarcasm was lost on

him. His blue eyes were already telling her that there was only one girl in the world for him. But he didn't waste words. He tossed his bag in the rumble seat, slammed the top down without locking it, and slid in front beside her. He drew her to him. "Love me, hon?"

His lips smothered her answer.

Then he sat back, his red hair spotting the dark. "Gosh, have I had a time! I save a woman from going overboard on the ferry. She gives me a sealed envelope—mystery stuff! But it was no joke, hon.

These things do happen, you know—"

"To you," Jane answered drily.

She steered the car out of the station, heading for South Mountain

Road.

FORMER HOME HEAD DIES IN BALTIMORE

SANDUSKY, Sept. 27.—Perry L. Null, who died yesterday in Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore, Md., was the center of a stormy controversy that ended with his discharge in 1936 as commandant of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' home here.

Mrs. Margaret Allman, state welfare director under former Democratic Gov. Martin L. Davey, filed six charges against Null on April 25, 1936, and removed him from office he had held since 1921. Null was a Republican.

The removal order climaxed a dispute which began during 1937 when Oakley Spaght, assistant director, declared that some residents of the home would not work and called them a "bunch of lazy whelps."

Although Spaght apologized, Governor Davey remarked at the time that Null would be replaced.

Later, Mrs. Allman investigated the home and reported that 204 prisoners from the state reformatory at Mansfield were doing the work "alleged to be done" by the home's 134 employees. Mrs. Allman's next step was to suspend Null and abolish the position of matron held by his wife.

Null was succeeded by Roy T. Rogers.

Null, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, came here from Genoa where he conducted a truck farm.

WIDE AND SLINKY SKIRTS SHARE FASHION SPOTLIGHT

Left, wide-skirted satin evening gown; right, shell pink and black slinky dinner dress; center, dyed blue fox cardigan, purple and black wool dress.

Wide-skirted 18th century formal gowns share the fashion spotlight with slim, slinky lines in the collection of Designer Jean Schlumberger, who has risen to the top in the American couture in the last three years. At left above he shows a wide-skirted gown in black duchess satin, with ostrich plumes tied with purple velvet bows dotting the skirt, and the same decoration trimming the square-cut neckline and forming the shoulder straps. The dramatic dinner dress, cut along slinky lines, right, is in shell pink and black. The peg-top slit skirt has a saw-tooth edge, which also makes an interesting design on the shell pink blouse, being repeated still again on the broad satin band that encircles the blouse. An example of this designer's use of fur is illustrated in the street ensemble, center. It consists of a "white seal" dyed blue fox cardigan over a purple and black wool day dress. The long bodice of deep purple wool is made with horizontal tucks; it has an interesting collar and is belted on a pleated skirt.

EMBARGO IS SEEN AS CURE ON JAPAN

CLEVELAND, Sept. 27.—The American embargo on war materials to Japan today was declared the most powerful weapon to curb Japanese aggression.

Dr. Hu Shih, Chinese ambassador to the United States, said the economic measure "already is beginning to show important effects on the national life and militaristic tempo of Japan."

"Japan is a nation most vulnerable to this economic embargo," Dr. Shih told the Cleveland foreign affairs council. "While she can manufacture most of her weapons of war, she is extremely lacking in raw materials with which to manufacture these weapons."

Famous Piano Team To Be Heard Here

The internationally famous piano duo of Jacques Fray and Mario Braggiotti, pictured here, will be the first artists to be heard in this season's series of concerts sponsored by the Northern Columbiana County Concert association.

The versatile pianists, who formed their team in Paris 11 years ago, have proved that no choral, orchestra or operatic work is too intricate for 20 fingers to execute and have delved into the vast storehouse of music hitherto closed to soloists, emerging with a new style of pianism which has made them favorites of the music world.

They were the first to give popular music the significance of concert hall performance in their debut in Paris in 1928 and were among the first artists to create a popular demand among American radio listeners for the one-time unfamiliar music of Debussy, Ravel, Stravinsky and DeFalla, which they aired repeatedly over the major networks stations. Again they were the first to introduce a note of humor in concert work when they startled a Carnegie Hall audience in 1930 with "take-offs on famous composers, using "Yankee Doodle" as a theme.

The Fray and Braggiotti concert on March 20 will be the third in the series. The others will be: The Don Cossack chorus on Oct. 6; and Brier Stoller, soprano, on Jan. 19.

The association's membership campaign closes this weekend. In charge are Miss Mary Bowman, phone 3213, and Mrs. E. E. Dyball, phone 5580.

"The Church presents a challenge to every thoughtful person. The work of the Church throughout the years has been a force for good and for the uplifting of humanity. The Church has been divinely established. Its continuance during these years of testing trial has justified the conviction of its supporters that it is here by the will of God to perform a task and mission. The Church building is so constructed that its beauty remains one of the glory and splendor of God, who is the Creator of all things. The strength of the structure is a suggestion of the power of the divine in the affairs of the world. It's Great To Be An American

In these days as we read the harrowing headlines and the even more gruesome details of events in Europe and Asia we all readily agree with the caption above frequently seen as a sticker on windshields. It is great to be an American from the standpoint of relative safety from bombs and battle and bloodshed. We have still the liberty to elect our ruling representatives, to express our political and social opinions and worship with freedom of conscience.

But these boons and blessings are not to be taken lightly. They are ours because they were gained at a price. Our generation has had little to do with their purchase. Others fought, bled and died for them and we are the inheritors. But as heirs are often unappreciative of their inheritance so there is danger that in taking our freedom for granted we may squander it. Now is the time rightly to prize our good and so to live and think and plan wisely that we may keep what we have.

Old Spinning Wheel
DES MOINES, Ia. - The old spinning wheel broke down and spoiled a contest but Mrs. Ames Walker was crowned Des Moines spinning champion anyway.
Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Peter Young were scheduled to meet for the title, but in a test-run before the contest got under way Mrs. Young's machine broke down.
The two agreed to spin five minutes each on Mrs. Walker's 125-year-old wheel, and Mrs. Walker, spinning 24 yards of yarn to 16 for Mrs. Young, won.

THE GUMPS

Two days have passed since Andy wandered off under a hypnotic spell.

THERE'S SOMETHING STRANGE ABOUT ALL THIS. TILDA-EVER SINCE MR. GUMP CAME UPON THAT HAIR-GROWING SALVE HE'S ACTED PECULIARLY.

HE FANCIED THAT HE HEARD CATS AND DOGS TALKING TO HIM! VIN ROUGE HAD AN IDEA THAT THE HAIR RESTORER MIGHT HAVE AFFECTED HIS BRAIN.

THEN SUDDENLY HE WENT TO ANOTHER CITY AND DIDN'T LET ME KNOW ABOUT IT TILL HE ARRIVED THERE - YOU DON'T SUPPOSE HE'S - HE'S -

SH!

I COULD HAVE SWORN I SAW A SWARTHY-FACED MAN WEARING A TURBAN - JUST OUTSIDE THAT WINDOW!!!

TAX STAMP SALES OFF IN SEPTEMBER

COLUMBUS, Sept. 27.—The state treasurer's office reported today that its sales of prepaid sales tax stamps dropped off in a week ended Sept. 13 to the lowest figure in six months.

The revenue amounted to $1,063,854. The lowest previous collection was $388,000 in the week ending March 8. Despite the drop, however, the Sept. 13 receipts were $56,302 above the corresponding week of last year.

Contributing to the decline were department stores and automobile dealers.

Treasurer Don H. Ebricht said the overall decrease was not representative enough to justify a conclusion on its cause or speculation on whether it was indicative of a general decline in consumer purchases.

against Americans traveling on beligerent vessels.

"There are some parts of the neutrality law which might be retained, such as that providing government control over munition exports, but I think the President should be given a free hand to decide what is needed and what is not."

The Utah senator said a simple bill could authorize the President "to fix such regulations regarding neutrality as he deemed necessary in the national interest according to the circumstances of the time."

Declares War Is Near
Knox followed up his declaration that war was near with an assertion that "it is imperative that we take every necessary measure to preserve our foreign commerce and the lives of our merchant seamen from destruction by commerce raiders."

Discussing the navy's role, he added "we must both hunt down enemy raiders and at the same time convoy our ships to protect them against such hostile craft as elude our patrols."

"The proportion in which the two methods might be combined is, of course, a military secret of the first importance."

He referred to President Roosevelt's promise to protect shipping in the "defensive waters" of the United States, and gave an indication of where those waters are by saying:

There are three principal routes along which we must protect our ocean trade: The north Atlantic to Europe, the sea lanes southward to both coasts of South America, and the long sweep across the Pacific westward to Australia, the East Indies and India."
